Drag Queen

data science

Drag holds space for everyone: it is a multi-dimensional art of self-exploration and expression.

There is power in obvious artifice.

Drag embraces contradictions, and embodies a rebellious pride that demands attention.

What if data science were more like drag?

- if quantification were more apparently only a part of a more nuanced reality,
- and combined with other ways of knowing.
- if statistical analysis were more often used as a tool for challenging the status quo and bringing visibility to societal problems
- instead of pressure to conform or not be counted

What if data science were more like drag?

- allowed for contradictions instead of reinforcing binary modes of thinking
- avoided imposing categories and inventing boundaries where the reality is more fluid

~~Make it make sense!~~

Life is AbSuRd.

Give it your ALL anyway,
and refuse to be someone you're not.
